To Offer Exemptions at Tax Hearing Tonight

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A proposal to exempt groceries and medicine from the sales tax was headed for introduction in the Arkansas Senate today.

Sen. Morrell Gathright of Pine Bluff said he had prepared proposed amendments, which will be considered along with a bill to raise the tax from 2 to 3 per cent.

The bill and Gathright's amendments will be considered at a Senate committee hearing tonight.

Another proposal by Gathright would set the minimum amount at which the sales tax would begin. He proposes that sales tax collection begin at 33 cents. At present the 2 per cent sales tax begins at 15 cents.

The present law does not specify when it is determined by the state revenue commissioner.

Gathright said rising the "minimum collection point" would give some relief to small purchasers and also insure that merchants pass on to the state all tax money they collect from consumers.

"There has been justification all along for exempting such essentials as groceries and medicine," Gathright said. "Now that we are going to raise the tax there is even more justification for such exemptions. The only reason that these items were not exempt in the past was that we could not afford it."

The Pine Bluff senator would make no estimate of the amount of revenue that would be lost through the exemptions.

The sales tax increase as originally written is expected to produce an additional 16 million dollars per year.

Sen. Lee Bearden of Leachville, who is steering the administration tax measures in the Senate, said he planned to introduce a revised severance tax bill today.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A public hearing on Gov. Orval Faubus' tax proposals was scheduled for the Senate Revenue and Taxation Committee tonight.

Sen. Lee Bearden of Leachville, who introduced Gov. Faubus' 3-percentage tax increase program in the Senate, is chairman of the committee.

Opponents of the measures indicated they expected heavy support at the hearing.

The Senate will consider the three bills Wednesday.

The Arkansas House, which has not received the governor's tax proposals, will act on them today.

Ice Coating Troublesome in Arkansas

By The Associated Press

Most of Arkansas today began to move out of an icy weekend. Power was interrupted at several cities and towns and many highways were reported "icy and dangerous" by State Police.

Schools were closed at Harrison and Blytheville in north Arkansas because of icy conditions.

The U. S. Weather Bureau at Little Rock said it expected temperatures in the low 40s today in most of the state, and a "little warmer" in north Arkansas. The temperature rise in north Arkansas may not be enough to thaw the coating of ice, the Weather Bureau said.

Thousands of Arkansans went without electricity several hours yesterday as ice-laden tree branches fell and snapped power lines at Little Rock, North Little Rock, Newport, Hot Springs and several smaller communities in north and central parts of the state.

Hope Star Delivery to Be Late Today and Tuesday Due to Factory Work on Press

Winding up a week's overhaul of the newspaper press by an expert from the Chicago factory Hope Star is compelled to take the composing room forms for today's edition to Texarkana where the press-run will be made by the Texarkana Gazette.

This emergency service will throw today's delivery to subscribers pretty late — and we may have the same situation Tuesday. We ask the kind understanding of all our subscribers... and we will be back on our own press, and our regular publication schedule, by Wednesday for sure.

Frank Kopler, factory service man for the Goss Printing Press Co. of Chicago, has been at work on the Star's press since early last week and in the final stages of the overhaul it is necessary to omit use of the press for one and possibly two days.

But the result is that we will be back with you as a brighter and better-printed newspaper for years to come. Thanks again...

Hope's new 2,000-seat gymnasium will be busy this week with three scheduled nights of basketball.

The first schedule is at 7 p. m. Tuesday when Hope High School's senior boys and girls teams play Ashdown.

On Wednesday night the Southern State freshmen of Magnolia play Texarkana Junior College on the local court.

And Friday night, February 1, at 7 p. m., the Hope senior boys and B boys meet a pair of teams from DeQueen High School.

This new photograph of the $150,000 Hope gymnasium was taken last week with The Star's new 90-degree wide-angle Optar lens — part of the new Speed Graphic camera outfit the newspaper purchased the first of the year.

However, the 3 1/2-inch wide-angle lens didn't arrive until last week; and its first assignment was to make a new picture of the gym. The open space between the black lines at the bottom of the picture shows the relatively narrow field of view permitted by the standard 5 1/4-inch lens, which lens made the picture published January 10 — compared to this new wide-angle photo.

Explanation of Demurrer Before PSC

EL DORADO, (Special) — At the request of The El Dorado Daily News, Bernard Whetstone, attorney for one of the firms protesting the 3X contracts of the Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co. has issued a statement explaining both the effect of filing of a demurrer before the Public Service Commission and the effect of overruling of the demurrer.

Whetstone said his position in the matter was that the commission is without legal authority under decisions of the Arkansas Supreme Court to grant approval of the contracts in the circumstances shown by the gas company.

His statement follows in full: "This is in response to your request that I explain in non legal language the effect of a filing of the demurrer before the Arkansas Public Utilities Commission regarding the rate case and also the effect of the commission's overruling of the demurrer."

"Expressed in every day language, the legal effect of a demurrer is to say that even if everything the company says is true, that still it would not be entitled to the approval it is asking."

"My position in filing the demurrer was that under the decisions of the Supreme Court of Arkansas, the commission is without legal authority, in the circumstances shown, to approve the contracts."

3 Accidents Here, Charges Filed in Two

City Police investigated three accidents yesterday and today with charges being filed in two and considerable property damage resulting. Nobody was reported injured.

At 6:55 a. m. Monday automobiles driven by Charlie Ogden of Hope and Jim Collins, Texarkana, collided on Highway 67 just inside the city limits. City officers said the entire left side of the Ogden auto was damaged while the other vehicle had a smashed front end.

Sunday at North Hervey and Pond an auto driven by Joe Ingram of Hope and a truck driven by William A. Correll of Texarkana ran together with the truck being practically demolished and the auto receiving bumper and grill damage. City Officers filed a charge of driving while intoxicated against Ingram.

Also Sunday on Highway 67, near the city limits west, cars driven by J. C. Gibson of Hope and Eddy Haynes of Prescott rammed together with both vehicles sustaining considerable damage. Investigating city policemen filed a charge of speeding against Gibson and failure to give a proper signal against Haynes.

Union Heads Favor Members Testifying

By NORMAN WALKER

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — AFL-CIO leaders were expected to take a strong stand today against union men invoking the Fifth Amendment to avoid giving testimony on alleged labor union racketeering.

Sentiment among union leaders appeared divided as the policy-making AFL-CIO Executive Council opened a winter meeting to decide organized labor's attitude toward an expected congressional investigation of union affairs.

One school, probably dominant among council members, counseled for cooperation with any Senate probe and ouster from the labor movement of any union official claiming Fifth Amendment immunity against testifying on grounds of possible self-incrimination.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, and a strong influence among council members, was reliably reported to favor this course. But another strong union group, composed of former

By EARL AYKROID

CHICAGO (AP) — An intense search was on today for "Frank," the man illiterate young Mennie Bedwell told police accompanied him on a sex and drinking orgy which ended in the slaying of the Grimes sisters.

Bedwell, 21-year-old skid row drifter, was booked last night on murder charges after Sheriff Joseph Lohman said he signed a statement that he and a man he knew only as "Frank" bent the teen-age girls and dumped them nude and unconscious in a snow-bank.

This was on the night of Jan. 13, the statement said, when temperatures in the Chicago area were below zero. The girls' bodies were found Jan. 22 lying near a culvert beside a lonely road in suburban Willow Springs after a rain and thaw melted snow in the area.

The beating, according to Bedwell's account, followed a seven-day binge during which he and the other man took the girls on a round of liquor and sex parties in cheap taverns and rundown hotels on the city's infamous skid row—West Madison Street.

They drove the sisters, Barbara, 15, and Patricia, 13, to Willow Springs and then pummeled them with their fists because, the statement related, the girls finally rebelled against more sex relations.

The girls disappeared the night of Dec. 28 after leaving home to see a movie of their idol, singer Elvis Presley.

Cause of their deaths has not yet been established and may take as long as two weeks as authorities examine tissues and vital organs. Death by strangulation, physical punishment, carbon monoxide gas or sexual abuse has been ruled out.

However, an official of the coroner's office says he believes they were alive when placed in the snowbank and that they froze to death.

Yesterday afternoon Bedwell took police, newsmen and hundreds of curious onlookers on what Lohman described as a re-enactment of events leading up to the girls' deaths. He pointed out a drive-in restaurant and a service station he said he, "Frank" and the two girls visited and the sites of the alleged beatings and abandonment of the bodies near Willow Springs woods.

At several stages during the reconstruction, the girls' father, Joseph Grimes, and a cousin, female relative of the sisters, attempted to force their way toward Bedwell but officers kept them back.

Inflationary Wages Rapped by Carmakers

By LEIF ERICKSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — George Romney, American Motors Corp. president, protested today against the encouraging "of inflationary wage increases through unrestricted concentration of union power."

"Most employers now are the underdogs," Romney said in a speech prepared for delivery to the National Automobile Dealers Association convention.

Romney, with a current United Automobile Workers strike at his heels, said he feared that the company's position would be "weakened by the concentration of union power."

Continuing his quotation of the UAW leader, Romney said Reuter had declared, "We cannot convince General Motors to part with its millions by pious platitudes. We've got to have a wallop."

"It is an economic absurdity to discipline prices through the competitive process and, at the same time, encourage inflationary wage increases through unrestricted concentration of union power."

"The biggest economic decision our industry and our nation must make is whether to permit industry to go down the present uncontrolled road of unrestricted concentration of power, or whether to restrain both and make them go down the American road of division and distribution of power."

Romney was the first of the motor industry's top brass to address the NADA convention. The NADA just one year ago was protesting loudly before Congress against the selling pressure of the automobile manufacturers.

Carl E. Frisley of Norwich, N.Y., NADA president, said in his annual report address that the "major surgery" of the O'Mahoney-Celler bill on dealer franchises had corrected most of the conditions causing animosity or nonproportionate operations for dealers while the manufacturing twin was "healthy."

More Incidents in Alabama's Race Trouble

By HENRY S. BRADSHAW

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Negro's home and service station-stand were dynamited in another of a series of incidents at this racially troubled state capital yesterday.

A short distance away, an unexploded bomb was found smoldering on the front porch of an integration movement leader's home.

The unexploded bomb, containing 12 sticks of dynamite, was placed at the unoccupied home of the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., who has been the top spokesman for Negroes seeking to break racial barriers here.

King, whose home was slightly damaged by a bomb last Jan. 30 and was hit by a shotgun blast last month, termed Montgomery "a city that it's dangerous to live in."

"It's no longer safe" here, he said.

In the 15th incident of violence in five weeks, a white television newscaster was shot at twice last night. He was not hit.

No serious injuries were reported in the early morning blast which damaged the home of Allen Robertson, 59-year-old hospital attendant. Three persons were slightly injured by flying glass at the service station, a few feet from the house.

Robertson said he, his wife and daughter were asleep when the explosion occurred. He said he knew of no reason for the incident.

Bob Underwood of station WCOV-TV, apparent target in the shooting incident, said, "I would assume this was connected with the threatening telephone calls."

Two large-caliber bullets hit his car as he was leaving his studios, one penetrating the windshield about a foot from him, the 29-year-old news director and police reported.

Underwood said he had "tried to be fair with white and Negro" in his news coverage but callers accused him of slanting his reporting against Negroes. He reported "about two dozen threatening calls since a Negro bus boycott began."

By BETTY PRYOR

WASHINGTON, (UP) — President Eisenhower asked Congress today to vote $2,220,000,000 in federal aid over the next four years to help states overcome a "most critical" shortage of schoolrooms.

In a 2,000-word special message to the House and Senate, the chief executive appealed for quick passage of an "emergency" program designed to overcome the nation's present "deficit" of about 169,000 classrooms.

In an effort to head off the fight over school segregation which blocked action on a dollar school program last year, Mr. Eisenhower appealed to Congress to enact the measure "on its own merits, uncomplicated by provisions dealing with the complex problems of integration."

The President proposed:

1. Federal grants of $325 million annually for the next four years, a total of $1.3 billion, to help build public schools in "financially needy" school districts. The federal money would be distributed under a complex formula taking into account the number of school-age children in a state and the state's average income per school-age child.

2. During the first year of the program, 1957, the federal aid would have to be matched by outlays from either state or local school district funds. After the first year, the matching funds would have to be matched by outlays from either state or local school district funds. After the first year, the matching funds would have to be matched by outlays from either state or local school district funds. After the first year, the matching funds would have to be matched by outlays from either state or local school district funds.

3. The matching funds would be calculated on a formula based on the state's income. The poorest states would put up 50 cents for each $1 of federal aid, the richest states $2 for each $1 of federal aid.

4. Any state which falls below the national average in the proportion of its income devoted to schools, or in dollar expenditures per pupil, would have its federal aid grant "reduced proportionately."

5. The federal government would spend up to $750 million over the four years to buy bonds issued by local school districts which have been unable to market their bonds commercially at "reasonable" interest rates. These bonds would be purchased at an interest rate equal to the rate paid by the U.S. Treasury on its own long-term securities, plus one half of one per cent.

6. Federal advances of $150 million over four years of help state agencies build schools which would be turned over to local school districts on a "lease-purchase" plan. It was estimated that this federal nest-egg would enable such state agencies to float bond issues of their own bringing in a total of $8 billion.

Death Toll in State Smallest in Weeks

By The Associated Press
 Arkansas counted 11 violent deaths during the week that ended at midnight Sunday. It was the smallest death toll in recent weeks.
 Traffic accidents cost eight lives. There were three fatal shootings.
 An automobile carrying five teenagers smashed into a pickup truck on an ice-coated overpass near Blytheville Saturday night, killing three persons and injuring three others.
 Dead were Alpheus Jee Everett, 17, of the Gosnell community near Blytheville, who was driving the car; Robert Prevost, 16, also of Gosnell; and Paulette Odum, 13, of Blytheville.
 Hospitalized at Blytheville were Charley Jones, about 25, of Cotter, Mo.; Patsy Beard, 14, of Armored; and Earl Coper, 17, of Gosnell. Jones and Miss Beard were in serious condition and Coper's injuries were said to be minor.
 State Trooper George Fullerton said the car apparently went out of control on the overpass and careened broadside into Jones' oncoming vehicle. The accident occurred on U.S. Highway 61 about four miles north of Blytheville.
 A 35-year-old Negro, Leon Cones, was killed yesterday in a shooting near Little Rock. Police said they were holding another Negro, Willie Smith, 62, in connection with the slaying.

Would Like for Ike to Use Old Tactics

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some State Department officials would like to see President Eisenhower return to some old-fashioned brass tactics negotiating tactics when he meets the leaders of Britain and France here in the spring.
 They would prefer less of the personality-and-charm approach by which he seeks to promote understanding without necessarily solving specific problems.
 They feel an intensive top-level effort is needed to resolve or at least clarify some of the great issues dividing the Big Three. There is some fear that an Allied summit conference without careful planning and preparation could do more harm than good.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and French Premier Guy Mollet are expected to come here within the next three or four months. Some officials say it could be as early as March.

Eisenhower has many times used an informal approach to international meetings — from his conference with British and French leaders in Bermuda and his approach also to this week's Nehru. That seems to be the spirit month with India's Prime Minister December 1953 to his talks last meeting with King Saud of Saudi Arabia.

However, there is a possibility that some agreements in principle might be reached with King Saud on continued use of the Dhahran air base and on a U.S. aid program to Saudi Arabia.

Court to Take Up Sentence of Gambler

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Supreme Court today agreed to decide whether too stiff a prison sentence was imposed on New York underworld leader Frank Costello for income tax evasion.

Costello, serving a five-year sentence for understating his income from 1947 through 1949, claims he was sentenced under the wrong federal law. He has asked the court to rule that he should have been punished under a different statute which puts a one-year limit on jail terms.

The high court, which previously upheld Costello's 1953 conviction, will schedule arguments on the new legal point later this year and then hand down a decision.

In other major actions today, the court:

1. Ordered a new trial for New York Union Leader Beh Goid, who was convicted in 1954 of lying when he swore in a National Labor Relations Board affidavit that he was not a Communist. The court ruled 6 to 3 that Goid's trial was invalid because FBI agents, checking up on a related case, inadvertently questioned three members of Goid's jury during the trial.

2. Granted a one-month extension, through Feb. 28, of its emergency authorization for the Army engineers to divert up to 8,500 cubic feet of water per second from the Great Lakes into

Fleeman to Lead Faubus' Tax Bills

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval Faubus today announced that Rep. E. C. (Gene) Fleeman of Mississippi County will lead the move to guide the administration tax increase bills through the Arkansas House.

The three measures — increases in the sales and severance taxes and a broadening of the income tax base — were introduced in the Senate by Sen. Lee Bearden of Leachville.

The three measures will be the subject of a public hearing tonight by the Senate Revenue and Taxation Committee.

Gov. Faubus has said he believes the measures will pass the Senate, but has indicated he considers the House opinion on his bills to be doubtful.

Faubus' sales tax measure would boost the tax from 2 to 3 per cent, bringing in an estimate 16 million additional dollars a year.

All told, the governor's program will bring in an estimated 22 million dollars more a year.

Israeli Sticks to Plan to Control the Gaza Strip

By WILLIAM N. OATS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Israel today stuck by its own proposals to keep Egyptian troops out of the Gaza Strip and the Gulf of Aqaba coastline.

It denounced U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld's suggested solution as an attempt "to restore a regime which has already ended in disaster."

Egypt still insisted on Israel's unconditional withdrawal from all Egyptian territory as the 80-nation General Assembly took up Hammarskjöld's report that Israeli invasion forces had "not fully complied" with five Assembly requests to return to their 1949 borders.

Israel's adamant stand was expected to spur the demands of the Arab nations for U.N. economic sanctions.

Israel offered once again to negotiate with Egypt for an over-all peace settlement. Egypt has spurned similar suggestions in the past. An Egyptian spokesman maintained full Israeli withdrawal was necessary before any other issues are taken up, declaring:

"The Israelis are trying to force a solution by their arms on Egypt."

The United States, Canada and several other nations were working on a resolution to put into effect the proposals made by Hammarskjöld in his report to the Assembly Friday.

The secretary general urged Israel's early withdrawal from the last areas Israeli troops still hold three months after their invasion of Egypt — the disputed Gaza Strip on the Mediterranean and the south coast of Egypt's Sinai Peninsula, where Egyptian guns had barred Israeli shipping from the Gulf of Aqaba.

Then, Hammarskjöld suggested U.N. police troops could be posted in the Gaza Strip, on both sides of the Egypt-Israel border and along the Gulf of Aqaba to help in "maintaining quiet," if both sides agreed.

Faubus Not Opposed to Oaklawn

By ADREN COOPER

LITTLE ROCK (AP) Gov. Orval Faubus indicated today he would not oppose a "permanent" horse racing franchise at Hot Springs for the Oaklawn Jockey Club.

Faubus refused to give a yes or no answer when asked if he would support the proposal.

"Wait until the bill gets in the Legislature," he said. "I would like to see what they think about it."

However, he said the "only way for horse racing to survive in this state is to keep it clean. Oaklawn has that reputation."

The Arkansas Racing Commission, which was appointed by Faubus, has recommended legislation that would give the franchise to Oaklawn for an indefinite period, as compared to the present system of taking bids every 10 years.

Oaklawn has held the franchise since racing was revived in the mid 1830s and last year secured a new 10-year permit.

Bidding was only a formality until last year when Oaklawn had competition for the first time and bid about $25,000. Previous bids had been $100.

Faubus said that giving the franchise to Oaklawn for an indefinite period might be a good way to keep the "shady characters" out.

Faubus said the Racing Commission's proposal, if adopted, could be changed by a succeeding Legislature.

lature if it did not work out. The governor said he did not think he would attend an open Senate committee hearing tonight if his 3-way tax program.

"As far as I know, I don't think it has ever been done before," he said.

The program, which includes increases in the sales and severance taxes and a revision in the income tax, is expected to come up for a vote in the Senate this week.

Asked how many votes he could muster for his measures in the House, Faubus replied: "I think we're in pretty good shape."

Faubus confirmed reports that his bill to hire an additional 82 state patrolmen may be delayed in the Senate. He said some lawmakers wanted additional information and he added, "They are entitled to know."

State Police Director Herman Lindsay had planned to add four additional men to the Criminal Investigation Division, Faubus said, but present plans call for all 82 men to be used for traffic control and a proposed driver's license bureau. The bill would raise the driver's license fee from $1 to $2 to finance the driver's license bureau and the extra patrolmen.

Faubus previously had said he thought there would be little if any opposition to the bill.

Wonderful Scene Last Week

This was a typical scene in Hope last week but a welcome one. Despite the inconvenience, nobody minded the rain — this section being short nearly 20 inches of the yearly average rainfall. Up to 7 a. m. today a total of 4.16 inches of rain has fallen here in January. The picture above shows Norman Moore's truck making the crossing at Third and Hervey Streets with water at least covering the truck tires.

Says TV Feeds the Actor But Not His Ego

By CHASLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—A man was saying the other day that television has fed the dramatic actor's stomach, but not his ego.

"Name me one TV actor who climbed the star status in the medium without first leaving television for the theater or the movies," he said. "Eva Marie Saint was not well known despite more than 100 TV roles until she made the motion picture 'On the Waterfront.' Even though Rod Taylor portrayed TV's 'Marty,' he had to climb to stardom by the movies."

It's always risky to say, "Name me one," of course. First thing you know somebody in Arkansas will rise up and name you half a dozen. But I think this fellow is right. Television has raised to prominence comedians and comedians, emcees and quiz contestants. But its hard core of regularly working actors and actresses remain largely anonymous in the public mind.

An interesting example is Jason Robards Jr., who is billed as a star 51... for the first time Sunday night when he appears in "Nobody's Town" on Goodyear Playhouse (NBC-TV). He has played more than 200 TV dramatic roles over a number of years. But he believes that he'd never have had the starring role if he had not left the medium for the theater.

Quitting television some time back, he took an off-Broadway role in "The Iceman Cometh" and received rave reviews. Next he went on to a important Broadway role in "Long Day's Journey Into the Night." Now television welcomes him back eagerly.

Why are dramatic actors a lost tribe in the video world? "It's the lack of identity that a TV actor has with the public. For example in the seven months I've been doing 'O'Neill' on and off Broadway I've received five times as much fan mail as I received for any of my TV acting roles combined. A comedian or an emcee usually has the stage to himself and is the focal point of audience attention. But an actor is so integrated with the play that he doesn't receive the same attention. That is, unless the audience has been preconditioned to watch the individual. By that, I mean someone who already is a name, somebody the audience will tune in to see."

VIENNA — Mrs. George Meyer, Chapelle, American free-lance after being freed from a Hungarian jail where she had sent more than seven weeks on a hunger strike for entering the country illegally. "Thank God I am an American!"

DOROTHY DIX

"Sensitive" Wife Can't Take Husband's Kidding

Dear Dorothy Dix: Everyone knows my husband as a good-natured, quite fellow. That was my opinion, too, before we married. However, I have since discovered that he's a terrific tease. He teases me constantly about my shortcomings. I'm very sensitive, so his jokes usually make me angry. He never teases in public, however.

PHILLIP

Dear Phillip: Don't you realize that people only kid those they love, or like very much? Your husband's teasing is a way of showing affection.

Learn to accept his jokes graciously; better yet, try to enter into the fun. Your marriage will be richer if you can share jests.

Do you want your man to become silent and glum? I hope the answer is not. Take your cue from him and learn to laugh instead of wallowing in pride over your sensitivity.

Dear Dorothy Dix: If one likes a

What a Few Noted Folks Are Saying

WASH-NGTON Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) charging Secretary of State John Foster Dulles "may very well have outlived his usefulness."

"A large number of congressmen just don't have confidence in Dr. Dulles. It's the wrong doctor, the wrong prescription, for the wrong disease."

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector — Israeli Foreign Ministry Spokesman Moshe Leshem attacking U. N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld's demand for Israeli evacuation of Gaza and the Sgaba coast.

"There is no indication that the secretary-general has taken this situation into proper account or that he has even asked Egyptian she is prepared to abandon the state of war and make peace."

LUDLOW, Mass. — Roman Catholic Archbishop Richard J. Cushing of Boston denouncing the scheduled U. S. visit of Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia.

"The spectacle has a no. of States rolling out the welcome mat to honor this tyrant would be a crushing blow to the hopes of billions of captive people around the world."

Union Heads

AFL union building trades leaders including President Dave Beck of the Teamsters Union was reported to favor encouraging union officials to avoid testifying in a congressional labor investigation.

"If crimes have been committed, why is it any concern of Congress?" a top building trades leader said privately. "Why should we condemn anyone until he is tried and convicted in the courts?"

Regardless of what labor does, Congress apparently is all set to establish a special committee with broad powers to delve into union practices.

The Senate Investigations subcommittee headed by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) already has held preliminary hearings and McClellan has recommended broader authority for any new committee.

Refusal of a number of AFL-CIO union officials to supply testimony to the McClellan group has made organized labor's whole attitude toward the projected congressional probe a matter of first consideration at the AFL-CIO council's 10-day session opening today.

Basically the question is, Will the 15 - million-member AFL-CIO help congressional investigators try to find and boot out crooks and hoodlums from the labor movement? Or will unions continue use of legal technicalities that will hamstring any probe?

The issue tended to align labor leaders formerly affiliated with the AFL-CIO merger a year ago against those formerly affiliated with CIO unions. Leaders of the former CIO unions favored cooperation with any congressional investigations.

stances shown by the gas company, to grant the approval, even if it should desire to do so.

"The use of a demurrer sometimes enables the tribunal before whom a matter is tried to decide the issue without putting the defense to the inconvenience, delay and expense of having to present testimony."

"his effect of the ruling on the demurrer is that the commission has held that it has legal authority, in the circumstances shown by the gas company, to approve the contracts and there remains only the one question of whether, in its discretion, it (the commission) thinks it should do so under all the circumstances."

"The further effect of the commission's ruling is that it has held that in its opinion that the gas company has already made out a prima facie case of approval."

"Strange though it may seem, this does not necessarily mean that the commission would rule in favor of the gas company even if no defense testimony were offered. The reason for this is that in testing the sufficiency of the gas company's case against the demurrer, every doubt is resolved in favor of the moving party (gas company) whereas in testing the merits of the case on final adjudication, the same testimony would be heavily discounted, or even wholly disregarded, on account of other considerations properly made."

Worst Winter Dumps Snow on Los Angeles

By United Press

The worst winter storm in eight years swept Southern California, dumping a rare snow cover on suburban Los Angeles and stranding hundreds of skiers in snow-bound mountain resorts.

The storm swirled out of a cold air mass yesterday that now covers all of the country except the Gulf Coast and the South Atlantic coast.

California Highway Patrol and sheriff's cars equipped with chains shuttled into the mountain areas to rescue skiers and sight-seers mired by heavy snows.

The recharged vacationers were taken to Red Cross stations for warm meals and rest.

The Weather Bureau said the storm was the worst in "sunny" Southern California since Jan. 11, 1940. Heavy snow jammed traffic in suburban Los Angeles while the city itself was hit by icy rain, sleet, hail and a light snow that quickly melted.

Temperatures dropped to 39 in Los Angeles yesterday, and weathermen warned readings would continue downward to a low of about 32 today.

The storm pushed into the Southwest with about two inches of snow coating an area from southern Wyoming through western Colorado and into northern New Mexico and Arizona.

Credit Is Now Available for Farm Housing

A line of credit now available from the Farmers Home Administration should help a good many owners in this area improve or build farm buildings, including houses, or provide water for household or farmstead use, for themselves or their tenants.

That is the belief of R. B. Arnold, Chairman of the Farmers Home Administration in Hempstead County.

Mr. Arnold's committee reviews applications for all loans made by the Farmers Home Administration and helps the county supervisor adapt the agency's program to local farmers' needs. Mr. Arnold said 18 farmers in this area have applied for farm housing loans in the past seven months, and interest in this type of credit is increasing. Throughout the Nation approximately 1,700 loans for $10,600,000 have been made.

In addition to being a farm owner, other eligibility requirements, as outlined by Mr. Arnold provide that the applicant must have enough income from the farm and other sources to meet family living and farm operating expenses to repay his loan and other debts on schedule.

Farm housing loans are repayable over periods up to 33 years at 4 percent interest, and are secured by a mortgage on the farm.

Applicants get building plans and specifications from whatever source they choose and make all arrangements for hiring the necessary labor and purchasing materials. The Farmers Home Administration representative will review the plans, inspect the construction as it progresses, and see that it meets generally accepted standards of soundness.

Mr. Arnold said farm owners may get further information at the Farmers Home Administration county office located in the court house at Hope where county supervisor W. M. Sparks is in charge.

Romney contended that "the chain reaction of pattern wage setting basically fixes the level of costs and prices."

"What would be the reaction of car buyers to an industrial counterpart of Walter Reuther negotiating and fixing with him the level of labor costs for all car companies if the level is then followed by price increases by all companies?" Romney asked.

He declared the antitrust laws should be modernized and "the basic conflict between the antitrust laws and the labor laws should be eliminated."

reported during the weekend. Three persons were killed and three others were injured in a collision on an ice-coated overpass near Blytheville in northeast Arkansas late Saturday night.

Damage to power lines was greatest in Little Rock and North Little Rock. An Arkansas Power & Light Co. official said 5,000 to 7,000 persons were without power at one time last night.

Two television stations at Little Rock were off the air several hours. At one point the CBS Sullivan Show appeared on screens carrying rival NBC's Steve Allen Show, knocking Allen off completely for a brief period.

AP&L officials at Little Rock said more than 20 additional crews of repairmen were at work repairing in the capital city area last night.

Technically, Little Rock is not really the official name of our capital city. This city was originally given the title — Arkopolis; but since the capital was located at the famous green rock and since the rock had received so much notoriety, folks referred to the city by that name.

Betsy Rawls Picks Up Prize Money

LAKE WORTH, Fla. — (UP)—History did not repeat, so Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S. C., picked up her second check for $800 within a week Sunday for winning the Lake Worth Women's Open Golf tournament.

It was almost a replay of the final round in the Tampa Women's Open the previous week when Fay Crocker of Montevideo, Uruguay, came in second to Miss Rawls.

At Tampa, however, Miss Crocker rallied on the closing day to fall short by only one stroke.

This time, it was Miss Rawls who was one stroke behind at the end of nine holes. She put on a sizzling finish to win with a 214 for 54 holes, while Miss Crocker's game fell apart on the closing nine with four bogeys for a 72-218. Miss Rawls finished with a 69.

A tee shot to within six inches of the flag gave Miss Rawls a birdie on the 13th hole. Then on the 14th, she rolled in a 43-foot putt for another birdie to more than clinch the victory as Miss Crocker wilted.

Neither Rice of Baylor plays a conference this week. If Arkansas beats both TCU and SMU, it will leave Rice, Baylor, SMU and Arkansas tied at the top with 4-2 records.

Arkansas is followed in the conference standings by Texas 2-3, TCU 1-3 and Texas A&M 0-4.

Southern Methodist still holds the overall lead with a 14-2 record, followed by Rice with 12-6.

Kansas State trimmed Arkansas 70-56 in last week's only other game.

This week the Porkers meet the Horned Frogs at Fayetteville Tuesday. Wednesday Baylor tries Texas Tech at Lubbock in a non-conference affair. Saturday SMU hosts Arkansas. TCU tries exas A&M at Fort Worth and Texas A&M at Fort Worth and Texas goes to Oklahoma to meet the Sooners.

Big Jim Krebs of SMU, despite the layoff last week, kept his individual scoring lead in both season and conference standings. Krebs led in season play with 390, followed by Ray Downs of Texas with 334. Tom Kelly of Baylor, who dropped to 28 points against TCU, jumped from eighth to sixth with a season total of 249.

Krebs kept his conference lead with 116 points, followed by Jerry Mallett of Baylor with 112. Dick O'Neal of TCU moved back into the standings with a total of 80 points, ousting Terry Day of Arkansas. Kelley vaulted from tenth to fifth with 91 points.

Southern Methodist, despite its loss to lowly Texas two weeks ago, was still favored to take its third straight conference championship.

But with the Mustangs' conference victory streak broken at 20 games, the rest of the teams took new heart and the four-way scramble for the crown was a definite possibility.

The award is given annually in honor of George Washington Carver, Negro Chemist, who became famous because of his outstanding contributions to the field of science.

Carver, who was born a slave, died in 1943 at Tuskegee Institute, where he was a member of the faculty.

New York - The 41st Spingarn medal was presented to Jackie Robinson, the versatile Brooklyn baseball star, at a luncheon in his honor here on Saturday, December 8, at the Hotel Roosevelt.

Presentation was made by Ed Sullivan, host of the TV program, "Toast of the Town."

The medal awarded annually by the NAACP to a Negro American for distinguished achievement, was presented to the brilliant athlete "for his sportsmanship, his pioneer roll in opening up a new field of endeavor for young Negroes, and his civic consciousness."

Instituted in 1914 by the late J. E. Spingarn, then chairman of the Association's board of directors, the medal has previously been awarded to such distinguished Americans as Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, Miss Marian Anderson, Judge William H. Hastie, A. Philip Randolph, Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune, Walter White, Richard Wright, Dr. Channing H. Tobias, Thurgood Marshall, Dr. Louis T. Wright, Dr. George Washington Carver and others.

In his will, Spingarn left a fund sufficient to continue the award "to perpetuate the lifelong interest of my brother, Arthur E. Spingarn, and of myself in the achievements of the American Negro." Arthur E. Spingarn is now president of the Association.

The donor established the medal to call attention to the existence of distinguished merit and achievement among U. S. Negroes and to serve as a reward for such achievement, and as a stimulus to the ambition of colored youth.

A nine-person committee makes the annual selection.

In addition to Robinson and Sullivan, others addressing the luncheon meeting include Dr. Channing H. Tobias, chairman of the NAACP board, and Dr. Allan Knight Chalmers of Boston, the association's treasurer.

Unlikely But Porkers Could Muddle Standing

By The Associated Press

It is unlikely, but the Southwest Conference basketball championship race could show four teams tied for first when this week ends.

Baylor beat Texas Christian 70-64 in the only conference game last week to tie with Rice for second place each has four victories and two losses. Southern Methodist leads with four victories and one loss. Arkansas is fourth with a 2-2 mark.

If Arkansas can win both its conference games this week, the Razorbacks will have a 4-2 record. The Porkers meet Texas Christian at Fayetteville Tuesday, then journey to Dallas to try Southern Methodist.

Neither Rice of Baylor plays a conference this week. If Arkansas beats both TCU and SMU, it will leave Rice, Baylor, SMU and Arkansas tied at the top with 4-2 records.

Arkansas is followed in the conference standings by Texas 2-3, TCU 1-3 and Texas A&M 0-4.

Southern Methodist still holds the overall lead with a 14-2 record, followed by Rice with 12-6.

Kansas State trimmed Arkansas 70-56 in last week's only other game.

This week the Porkers meet the Horned Frogs at Fayetteville Tuesday. Wednesday Baylor tries Texas Tech at Lubbock in a non-conference affair. Saturday SMU hosts Arkansas. TCU tries exas A&M at Fort Worth and Texas A&M at Fort Worth and Texas goes to Oklahoma to meet the Sooners.

Big Jim Krebs of SMU, despite the layoff last week, kept his individual scoring lead in both season and conference standings. Krebs led in season play with 390, followed by Ray Downs of Texas with 334. Tom Kelly of Baylor, who dropped to 28 points against TCU, jumped from eighth to sixth with a season total of 249.

Krebs kept his conference lead with 116 points, followed by Jerry Mallett of Baylor with 112. Dick O'Neal of TCU moved back into the standings with a total of 80 points, ousting Terry Day of Arkansas. Kelley vaulted from tenth to fifth with 91 points.

Southern Methodist, despite its loss to lowly Texas two weeks ago, was still favored to take its third straight conference championship.

But with the Mustangs' conference victory streak broken at 20 games, the rest of the teams took new heart and the four-way scramble for the crown was a definite possibility.

The award is given annually in honor of George Washington Carver, Negro Chemist, who became famous because of his outstanding contributions to the field of science.

Carver, who was born a slave, died in 1943 at Tuskegee Institute, where he was a member of the faculty.

Musial Hasn't Signed Contract
ST. LOUIS — Five St. Louis Cardinals came into the fold over the weekend, leaving only Stan (The Man) Musial unsigned. For 1957, He's expected to sign within a few days.

The five players who agreed to general manager Frank Lane's terms were pitcher Bob Blaylock, first baseman Joe Cunningham, infielder Eddie Miksis, outfielder Whitely Lockman, and Tom Altison another first baseman.

Lockman, 30, was understood to have taken a cut in pay from a reported $25,000 he made in 1956. He hit .290 last year, coming to St. Louis from the New York Giants in a four-for-four deal.

The 30-year-old Miksis, obtained from the Chicago Cubs in a recent 10-player deal, hit .239 last season.

Lane said Musial was expected to sign when Miss Mary Murphy, Cardinal secretary who has been present at all his 15 signings, returns from a vacation. The Post-Dispatch said yesterday he has already agreed to terms.

DELIVERANCE
GLENWOOD, Ill. (UP)—Miss Lane's deliverance to 400 school pupils here yesterday. They delivered school officials' messages that there would be no grade school today because of a broken water pump.

Miss Quast Wins Women's Crown

FOR LAUDERDALE, Fla. (U)—Gay + spirited An Quast, 18, overcame a 3-hole deficit, forced unprecedented overtime play, and won the Helen Lee Doherty women's amateur crown yesterday from Joanne Goodwin.

Miss Quast, from Marysville, Wash., was 3 down with 6 to go in the 36-hole finals. Par shooting on the 31st and 34th holes shrank her 20-year-old Doherty mouth, Miss Quast's advantage to 1-up, and then the West Coast girl birdied the par 5 36th. Miss Goodwin's 10-foot putt reached the cup's rim but failed to drop, and she took a 5.

More putter trouble for Miss Goodwin developed on the 37th and they halved that hole. On the 38th, Miss Quast had a 1-stroke advantage when a Goodwin putt stopped a foot short of the cup, the Bay State conceded.

The struggle that had gone all-even at the end of the first 18 holes as well as at the 36th. In the morning round, both shot 76, 2 under women's par on the 6,640-yard Coral Ridge Country Club course.

These three games keynote week in which the court stars who have been busy with mid-year examinations for two weeks, swing into the second and decisive half of the season.

Before the week is out, every team in the top 10 of the United Press rankings will see action except ninth-ranked Seattle, idle until Feb. 5.

Kentucky was one of four high ranked teams playing last Saturday, and set the winning style for the quarter, the Wildcats sank 43.1 percent of their shots as Gerry Calvert and Johnny Cox scored 25 points each to beat 15th-ranked Vanderbilt.

Louisville (No. 6) nipped Dayton, 57-56 in a replay of last year's National Invitation Tournament finale on Soph Hal Andrews' 25-foot shot, at the final buzzer; Illinois (No. 8) equalled the Chicago Stadium scoring record in whipping Notre Dame, 92-81; and Ohio State (No. 10) rallied in the final six minutes to beat Northwestern, 83-71.

Here's the situation now in the major conference title races: Big Ten—If Ohio State is upset tonight, it will lose its loss-column edge over Illinois, Purdue, and Michigan but retain a one-column margin. Illinois-Purdue clash on Saturday then could be week's top game.

Pacific Coast Conference—UCLA (4-0) can tie California (6-0) by beating Oregon State in Los Angeles Friday and Saturday.

Ivy League—Princeton (5-0) (1-1) will try to gain ground by winning game Saturday night against Harvard and Cornell, respectively.

Southern-West Virginia risks 6-mark against Virginia Tech tomorrow. A loss would cut Mountain State's margin to half-game over idle Washington? Lee (5-1).

Atlantic Coast—While North Carolina (6-0) is idle, Duke (4-1) can move within a half-game by beating Wake Forest tomorrow and Maryland Thursday.

Southeastern—While Kentucky (4-1) meets Georgia Tech tonight, Auburn (also 4-1) faces Georgia. Tulane (also 4-1) doesn't play until Friday.

Missouri Valley—St. Louis (4-1) can tie Wichita (5-1) for second place by beating Oklahoma A&M tomorrow, while Wichita and leading Bradley (6-0) are idle from league action.

Big Seven—If Iowa State can repeat its upset of Kansas (3-1) a Kansas Saturday, then idle Nebraska (2-1) will inherit the lead.

Southwest—If SMU (4-1), the nation's No. 5 team, is upset by Arkansas Saturday, it will drop into a tie with idle Rice and Baylor (each 4-2).

Skyline—If Brigham Young (4-1) is upset by Denver Saturday, either Montana or Colorado A&M (each 3-2) can go ahead by winning a game Thursday and the beating the other on Saturday.

Other conference leaders—Yankee: Connecticut (2-0); Middle Eastern: St. Peter's (2-0); Ohio Valley: Western Kentucky and Morehead St. (each 3-0); Midwestern: Miami of Ohio (7-0); Midwestern: Ohio (8-0); Rock Mountain: Idaho St. (4-0).

Chapter I

The guns were still, the carnage had ended. Lee had surrendered at Appomattox Courthouse, Johnstone had come to terms with Sherman and, on Texas, Kirby Smith had yielded the last armed force of the Confederacy. The war was over.

Yet now, eight weeks after Appomattox, the gray-uniformed soldier lay on the ground in a cane-brake in South Texas, the life-blood seeping from a bullet wound in his chest. His pain-tortured eyes looked into the face of Sgt. Chad Morgan, of the 18th Illinois Cavalry.

A few yards away, Sgt. Joe Jagger was searching the overturned army ambulance in which the Confederate had tried to outrun the two Union cavalrymen. Two dead horses were tangled in the harness. The broken wagon shaft had pierced the belly of one of the horses, a carbine bullet had taken care of the other.

Morgan dropped to one knee beside the wounded man. A quick glance told him the story.

"Why'n't you stop?" Morgan asked testily. "The war's been over for two months."

The Confederate's mouth worked terribly. "Jo... Jo Shelby... needs."

Morgan made an impatient gesture. "Shelby's a fool. He thinks he can go down into Mexico and enough Confederates will join him so he can come back and start the war all over. There's a civil war going on in Mexico. Juarez won't have Shelby and neither will Maximilian."

"What's he got with him? A bunch of Missouri bushwhackers who're afraid to go home, deserters, riffraff. With that he thinks he can conquer Mexico."

"Chad!" suddenly called Joe Jagger. "Look..."

Morgan saw a quick glance over his shoulder. He saw that Jagger was dragging a small, iron-bound chest out of the wreckage of the ambulance. He got quickly to his feet and went over to join his fellow sergeant.

"Maybe this is why he wouldn't surrender," Jagger said.

Morgan gestured to Jagger to step aside. He pointed his carbine at the lock on the chest and pulled the trigger.

The bullet smashed the lock and in a moment, Jagger forced open the lid of the small chest. A cry was torn from his throat.

"Gold!"

The small chest was filled, almost to the very top, with bright golden eagles and double eagles.

Jagger's hands plunged into the golden mass, came up with a double handful of coins. "Must be twenty-thirty thousand here," he said in awe.

"General Shelby's war chest!" Jagger shook his head. "Jo Shelby never saw this much money."

Jagger dumped the gold coins back into the chest. Both men walked back to the wounded man. Jagger dropped to his knees.

"We found the gold, Reb."

The wounded man groaned.

"Those is it?" Morgan asked gruffly. "Then made a wild guess."

"Jeff Davis?"

A spasm of pain contorted the Confederate's face. "So that's lost, too!"

"They been lookin' for this mon."

The Confederate's mouth worked terribly. "Jo... Jo Shelby... needs."

ey," Jagger exulted. "All the way between here and Richmond, Va." He suddenly got to his feet and caught Chad Morgan's eye.

The two cavalrymen walked back to the gold chest. "We're heroes, Chad," Jagger said. "They'll cite us in dispatches for this."

Chad Morgan looked narrowly at the man who had been his closest friend for almost four years, the man who had twice saved his life and whose life he had himself saved; the man whose canteen he had shared, whose blankets he had often used.

"What you're thinking," he said deliberately, "is finders keepers."

"Who owns this?" Jagger asked softly. "The Confederate States of America? There's no such thing, Jeff Davis? It wasn't his in the first place and anyway he's in prison now."

His eyes went to the wounded Confederate. "It sure doesn't belong to him because where he's going he won't need any money."

He cleared his throat. "It's our money, Chad. Yours and mine."

They counted the gold as they stowed it away in their saddlebags. They found that there was an even $25,000.

"I was looking forward to getting me a job in a store," Morgan said, "but now, I dunno, maybe I'll read law for a couple of years."

"And in five years you'll be earning just about enough to get by," said Joe Jagger.

"I don't figure to ever be a rich man."

"Well, I do," declared Jagger. "I want money, a lot of money, Chad."

He made a sudden sweeping gesture. "What's made the biggest impression on you about Texas?"

"The buffalo. There must be a million of them."

"And 20 million longhorns," snapped Jagger. "They been roaming wild all these years. Every Texas cattle poor."

"Well, they won't go hungry."

"They've got too much beef," Jagger went on, "so much that a longhorn is worth maybe $2. That's for the hide and tallow. But they're hungry for beef up North. A $2 Texas longhorn would fetch $20 in Illinois."

"If you could get him to Illinois."

"They got them there before the war. I was in the livestock-feeding business in Bloomington. I saw two-thirty Texas herds brought in. Pretty ragged stuff, but not too bad after it was fattened up."

He paused. "They've started to build the Union Pacific. It's moving out across Nebraska right now. And there's another railroad building out of Kansas City, across Kansas. It's going to be a lot easier to drive these longhorns to market than it was before."

"You're figuring on driving Texas cattle to Kansas?"

Jagger smiled. "Not me. Uh-uh. Oh, there's money in it, but not the kind of money I'm interested in. Not with a stake of 25,000—"

"Twenty-five?"

"You're going in with me," Chad Morgan hesitated. "I was thinking of studying law."

"With the kind of money we'll have in two or three years you'll be able to hire a dozen lawyers."

Morgan looked thoughtfully at his friend for a moment. Then a sudden grin spread across his face. He nodded toward the Confederate.

"What about him?"

"He's dying, isn't he?"

"Sure, but it might be hours."

Jagger looked sharply at Morgan, then he went to the Confederate. He looked down at him and drew his revolver.

Morgan cried out in horror. "Joel No. 1!"

Jagger's revolver roared. He looked coolly at Morgan and mounted his horse. "I'm in a hurry," he said, "for that million dollars."

It was the summer of '66, a full year after they had come into possession of $25,000 in gold. When the two cavalry sergeants, Chad Morgan and Joe Jagger, met in St. Louis and proceeded to the offices of the Kansas & Colorado

Actor Turns Handicap Into Asset

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (P) — Aldo Ray is a good lesson in how to turn a handicap into an asset.

When you think of Aldo, you think of his voice. It sounds like a muted foghorn on the San Francisco Bay, which is where he grew up. His voice is his trademark, the thing that sets him apart from other actors.

Yet some people would consider his voice a handicap. And Aldo did too in his earlier years.

"My voice was normal until I was 9 years old," he recalled. "One day I was playing football with the bigger guys. They were teaching me how to tackle, showing me I should grab low at the ball carrier's legs."

"On one play, I took a dive at a guy's legs and his heel came up and hit me right in the Adam's apple. The breath was knocked out of me; I couldn't talk. I went home scared."

"For 24 hours I couldn't talk. My mother was frightened, but she couldn't afford to take me to a doctor. Those were depression days; a $2.50 doctor bill would have been catastrophe. Eventually I was able to talk, but my voice was never the same."

His playmates in Crockett, Calif., often tormented him about his voice. Aldo got into many a battle over their taunts. But then he changed his attitude.

"People noticed my voice," he said. "I was always being chosen president of the class and captain of the team. I figured that my voice must be an advantage, that it called attention to me. So I decided to use it as an asset."

And he did. He continued winning honors in school. And he credits the voice for starting his acting career.

Director David Miller was interviewing football types in San Francisco for roles in "Saturday Hero." Aldo's brother wanted to try out for it, and Aldo went along with him. When Miller heard his voice, Aldo was signed.

He was a hit in pictures from the start. His voice seemed to fit him perfectly — a big, chunky, tough guy who could also be soft. Now he's got one of his best roles so far, as a hardbitten sergeant in "Men in War," a superior battle picture.

Railroad.

The suite of offices wasn't impressive, for the railroad had only two crews of workers. One was laying track in Kansas and the other was out selling stocks and shares. The construction crew was doing a better job of it.

In the outer office of the railroad company was a girl who caused Chad Morgan to gasp. She was the most beautiful creature he had ever seen in his life. In her early twenties, she was dressed in a prim calico dress that should have made her unattractive, but failed. She had golden-brown hair; a marvelous complexion and her eyes were blue, with a light in them that would cause a lot of good men a great deal of trouble.

When Jagger and Morgan entered the office, she leaped to her feet and ran to Joe Jagger with outstretched arms.

"You're here," she cried. "At last!"

For an instant Chad Morgan actually hated his friend. Jagger kissed the gorgeous one, then thrust her out at arm's length.

"You're old enough to get married."

"I was old enough when you went away," retorted the girl. She shot a quick look at Morgan.

"You're Chad! Joe's written me about you." She held out her hand.

Morgan took the hand, found it warm and firm. "How are you, Miss?"

"Miss? Ah — in — the — hole."

chuckled Jagger. "My sister Helen."
